

the wines

“I like to think about the life of wine, how it is a living thing.
I like to think about what was going on in the year
the grapes were growing. How the sun was shining, if it rained. I like to think about all the people who tended and picked the grapes.
And if it’s an old wine, how many of them must be dead by now.
I like how wine continues to evolve,
I like if I opened a bottle of wine today
it would taste different than if I’d opened it on any other day, because a bottle of wine is actually alive.
And it is constantly evolving and gaining complexity,
that is until it peaks, like your ’61.
And then it begins its steady inevitable decline.”

— Maya, from the movie “Sideways” (2004)

the reds

In the early 1990's, the TV series 60 Minutes twice aired a report on the phenomenon known as the French Paradox

– the fact that the French have a lower rate of heart disease than Americans, despite a diet that is higher in fat.

Since the one thing the American diet lacks, in comparison to the French diet, is red wine, some researchers were looking for a link between the consumption of red wine and a decreased rate of heart disease.

Not surprisingly, in the year following this report, Americans increased their purchases of red wines by 39 percent.

Wine is fat free and contains no cholesterol!

Cabernet Sauvignon

The words 'powerful, masculine and complex' best describe Cabernet Sauvignon. Aromas of blackberry, blackcurrant, cassis, mint, warm spice, plum, eucalyptus, cedarwood and sometimes leather all fill the glass. It might be a bit of a bully, but the mighty Cabernet Sauvignon has staying power, a prize fighter – still, 'king of the ring'. Pairs well with red meats, hearty pasta, lamb, strong cheese and chocolate.

Pinot Noir

Nicknamed the 'Heartbreak Grape', Pinot Noir is like a temperamental teenager; stubborn and sensitive. Done right, it is a thing of beauty. It can be remarkably subtle, silky textured with layers of earth, mushroom, wild strawberries, raspberries and warm baked cherries. Pairing includes poultry, beef, bacon, fish, lamb and mushrooms, spicy and ethnic foods.

Petite Sirah –P.S. –We Love You

Why doesn't California Petit Sirah get more love from the cognoscenti? It has some of the elements they love: it is relatively obscure; confusing; pairs well with some hard-to-pair dishes. Does the word "Petite" scare away the macho wine dudes? Is the weird American spelling of Syrah with an 'i' instead of 'y'? We are fans and it pairs perfectly with rich fatty meats such as BBQ'd ribs or spicy Korean and Indian dishes. Some sentiments from us, and some from J. Wilson, Washington Post.

"you had me at Merlot"

Take this, Miles! We now have "Merlove" & "Merlust". Who wouldn't covet a fine Petrus from the famed Pomerol appellation in Bordeaux? In our house, we have hand picked them all – you really can't choose a bad one. Why not re-visit an old love and try one instead of your go-to red choice. Be different – it's cool. Aah! Syrah aka Shiraz

The cool kid in town, Syrah travels in mufti as Shiraz and is Australia's spicy, big-hitting red wine, rich and fruit forward, masculine, rustic and profoundly elegant. In France it is known and grown as Syrah and is responsible for some of the Northern Rhone's big, bold red wines – think "rich and earthy" and old world style. Key to choosing is knowing what you like. Either way they are big, fat and 'in your face'." — Christie Vaughn – Dream Wines

Nebbiolo/Barbaresco/Barolo/Barbera

Nebbiolo is the quintessential Piedmontese wine grape. It is named after and evokes the region's foothills on cool autumn mornings, when valleys and vineyards lie hidden under a ghostly blanket of nebbia (fog). Nebbiolo is most celebrated for making complex, high acid, high tannin Barolo and Barbaresco. Wines are characterized by layers of tar, truffles, roses, violets, prunes & dark chocolate. — Christie Vaughn – Dream Wines

Tempranillo

This signature wine grape and quintessential, indigenous "noble grape" of Spain comes in many disguises and aliases depending upon where it is grown. Most experts agree that it is a classic quality grape variety and responsible for some of Spain's best wines. It's most famous expression is in the rich, velvety red wines of La Rioja.

And now for some 'drinking out loud' in Portugal

Until very recently, Portugal did a pretty poor job with its Douro patrimony. Too often the wines were dirty tasting, from old, unclean barrels. The winemaking was crude, the ambition for greatness non-existent.

No More! Portugal is now gushing with stunning wines — and yes, stunning deals. Portugal very likely now offers some of the greatest wine values on the market today. Portugal's achievement is still recent and the word hasn't quite made the rounds! It is arguably the most exciting wine place on the planet today!

"Wine is the best of all beverages ... because it is purer than water, safer than milk, plainer than soft drinks, gentler than spirits, nimbler than beer, and ever so much more pleasant to the educated senses of sight, smell, and taste than any of the drinkable liquids known to us." —Andre L. Simon, author and founder of the Wine & Food Society

the whites

“Want to know the secret to pairing white wines?
Think of a cool region wine with no oak on it
— say, Sancerre, Pinot Grigio, or Tocai Friulano.
Now, think of a lime. If you can put lime on your food, you can most likely pair it with an unoaked white wine.
Ceviche and Sancerre is going to be a great pairing.
Chicken in a béchamel sauce with Sancerre, probably not.
Now, think of a white wine with oak on it — say, California Chardonnay. Think of it like butter.
If a dish works with butter, it will work with the wine.
Lobster with Chardonnay: a great pairing.
Ceviche with Chardonnay: definitely not.”

— Greg Harrington, MS

Chardonnay

"As I ate the oysters with their strong taste of the sea and their faint metallic taste that the cold white wine washed away, leaving only the sea taste and the succulent texture, and as I drank their cold liquid from each shell and washed it down with the crisp taste of the wine, I lost the empty feeling and began to be happy and to make plans.

Sauvignon Blanc

"The sun had already set behind the mountains, and the sky had been drained of color. The trellises of sauvignon blanc flowed down the hill in even rows toward the valley floor. Whatever I was looking for, it wasn't outside. As far as I could tell, the grapes were minding their own business." — Frederick Weisel, Teller

Viognier

Oft described as Chardonnay's elegant, sexy, more exotic older cousin, Viognier is full, round, packed with ripe apricot, peach, musk and floral notes with a slightly oily feel.

Gewürztraminer

One of the classic noble grapes, it is perfect with Asian and Middle Eastern foods, Gewurtztraminer has an unmistakable aroma of lychees, roses, ginger and layers of spices. With its low acidity and higher alcoholic content, it is not a 'slurper'!

Chenin Blanc

Before the big Chardonnay boom of the 70's, Chenin Blanc ruled the roost. It is the "thinking person's" white wine. Terroir is everything. This wine has many faces and degrees of sweetness. It can be crisp with dancing acidity, flinty like crushed rocks and gravel, bone dry or off dry, semi sweet or sweet. It is versatile and refreshing, like biting into a crisp apple.

The Rieslings

One of our most under-appreciated varietals, Riesling exudes layers of lemon, lime, peaches, stone fruit, and a distinct aroma of wet stone combined with racy acidity. It is a perfect match for spicy food. Riesling is a challenge to the viticulturist.

Given good weather, the longer the grapes remain on the vine, the sweeter they become – but the winemaker takes a risk as all could be lost in the event of bad weather.

Grüner Veltliner

“Grüner Veltliner is one of the most food-friendly wines around. This dry white, native to Austria, is so delicious on its own you’ll not want to put your glass down. It pairs wonderfully with so many different dishes: spicy, Asian-influenced, light to rich, all seafood, high-acid foods - even asparagus and other hard to match foods. Step outside your usual go-to and expect to be impressed!”

Marsanne & Marsanne Blends

Jacqueline , la fondatrice of Chateaux Ollieux – a magnificent old property surrounded by old vines and olive trees or “Ollieux” – was probably one of the first winemakers in Languedoc. Unique, she fought against prejudice to protect the oldest vines in the Corbieres, the Carrignan or Alicante grapes. She took risks by launching one of the first oak aged whites of the appellation. An amazing little woman, she excels at assembling the collection – all while smoking a pipe!

Rousanne

Rousanne is my "go-to-wine" for balancing structure with acidity. Rousanne can do it all! It's the perfect white wine for red wine drinkers because, with eyes closed, it would be hard to tell this rich, full bodied, earthy wine apart from a red. While I can pair brighter Rousannes with fish and shellfish, I can pair other Rousannes with Asian or Southwest-style red meats served with lime or other citrus.

Rosé – Drinking Pink

Rosé, unlike red wine and Helen Mirren, does not improve over the years — so don't get any ideas about hoarding it in your cellar for half a century. There's no shame in drinking something with last year printed on the label. You shouldn't drink (and probably won't find) anything that's dated more than two or three years back.

Sparkling

*When Madame Lily Bollinger from Champagne Bollinger was asked "When do you drink champagne?" she replied: "I only drink champagne when I'm happy, and when I'm sad. Sometimes I drink it when I'm alone. When I have company, I consider it obligatory. I trifle with it if I am not hungry and drink it when I am.
Otherwise I never touch it – unless I'm thirsty*
